BURKHARDT TO TAKE FIGHT TO APPEALS COURT

O. J. Roush Again Returns to Duty as Chief of Police
Wednesday—Mayor and Civil Service Plans Blocked by Judge F. C. Becker's Order

Beaten at every turn in common pleas court, Mayor F. A. Burkhardt, planned Wednesday to renew his battle to oust Chief Roush by carrying the case to the court of appeals.

The chief executive held a conference with Solicitor H. E. Garling early in the day. Garling was instructed to prepare an appeal from Judge Fred C. Becker's verdict and carry the case to the higher court.

Outcome of the injunction proceedings in common pleas court swept the administration off its feet.

MAYOR IS "SURPRISED"
"I am quite surprised," said Mayor Burkhardt.

Other moves planned by the mayor to carry on the fight include filing new charges against Roush and seeking to have the injunction granted by Judge Becker dissolved.

He intimated he will carry the fight to the bitter end and will go down fighting at midnight, December 31.

At present Mayor Burkhardt is making no attempt to resist the order of the court, restoring Roush to duty.

"I have received the order of the court," Solicitor Garling said Wednesday, "and have not read it over to learn the grounds on which the court bases its decision. I cannot say what will be done until I've looked it over."

No appeal had been filed at noon Wednesday, it was learned.

BURKHARDT BLOCKED
Armed with a court order, restraining Mayor Burkhardt from interfering with him in performance of his duties, Chief of Police O. J. Roush stepped back on the job Wednesday morning.

Injunction granted as a result of a hearing before Judge Fred C. Becker, Tuesday, was issued late Tuesday night and virtually puts an end to Mayor F. A. Burkhardt's efforts to drive Roush from office. It also blocked many of the civil service commission to place Roush on trial Wednesday before a special commission created by that board.

The few days time intervening between now and January 1, is believed to be insufficient for the mayor to rally his shattered forces and renew the fight.

What the new city commission or Manager C. A. Bingham may do in reference to the 12 complaints is a matter of speculation.

Statement made by counsel for Roush that Mayor Burkhardt repeated his mistake of November 23 in his order of December 16, was verified by the ruling of the court.

HELD THREAT NOT ORDER
Judge Becker upheld their contention that Burkhardt's letter of December 7 was a threat and not an order of removal and ruled that a reasonable time had not been allowed Roush to offer an explanation of the charges brought against him.

The court also stressed the fact that charges filed by Burkhardt do not give dates, names or places.

It has been the contention of Melvin C. Light and William H. Leete, attorney for Roush, through the proceedings, that no explanation could be offered, because the charges are not specific.

Chief Roush, accompanied by his attorney, drove to the station in his car Wednesday, arriving there shortly after 9 a. m.

AFFIDAVIT SIGNED
His first act after taking charge was to sign a number of affidavits in criminal court. M. F. Dawson, who was appointed chief during Roush's absence, was present.

On advice of Safety Director D. W. Dorris, Dawson turned over the keys of the station to his reinstated superior.

A check of the station property will be made late Wednesday, including books and papers, confiscated liquor, arms and ammunition.

SUBMARINE PLAN ABANDONED

U. S. Compromise Proposal Rejected Finally by France.

CLOSES DOOR TO AGREEMENT

Capital Ship Ratio However, is Adhered to.

WASHINGTON.—(By Associated Press).—Hope for an agreement to limit submarine tonnage was declared to have been abandoned today at the meeting of the arms conference naval committee.

A demand by France for a minimum submarine tonnage of 90,000 tons was declared by delegates to have closed the door to any agreement, the American compromise proposal having been rejected finally and completely by the French.

Casting aside the possibility of harmonizing views on submarine tonnage, the American delegation brought forth a new proposal to limit the size of submarines and other auxiliary craft to a maximum of 10,000 tons.

The presentation of the French viewpoint, based on calculations of their naval experts and reinforced by approval of the French cabinet meeting yesterday in Paris, was followed by lengthy discussion, the committee adjourning the session after two hours debate to meet again late this afternoon.

FRANCE'S FINAL WORD
Albert Sarraut, head of the French delegation, it was understood, presented with an air of finality the declaration that France could not accept less than 330,000 tons of auxiliary tonnage, including a submarine tonnage of 90,000. The American compromise proposal would have given France about 31,000 tons of submarines.

The British and Japanese delegations are understood to have stated that in view of the French stand on submarines, they would both feel compelled to reserve action on the tonnage ratio for auxiliary craft.

REGRETS EXPRESSED.
Italian spokesmen following presentation of the French demand, it was said, expressed regret that France had not seen it clear to accept a smaller tonnage and Japan, also thru her delegation spokesmen, declared that the French demands amounted to something which Japan could not hope to sanction under the American proposal.

The French delegation declared adherence to the capital ship ratio agreement despite disagreement on submarines, but with the observation that she desired to begin rebuilding replacements in 1927, also this did not mean that she intended placing them in the water before the replacement period provided under the capital agreement.

DIVORCE WON BY MRS. McCORMICK

WIFE WILL SHARE BIG ESTATE

Agreement Made On Division of Harvester King's Millions.

CHICAGO — (By Associated Press) Mrs. Edith R. McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., millionaire oil king, was granted a divorce from Harold F. McCormick, president of the International Harvester Company, in superior court today.

No provision for alimony was included in the divorce decree, which was signed in court by Judge Charles A. McDonald, after Mrs. McCormick had filed suit for divorce on charges of desertion against Mr. McCormick, who admitted the charges.

While no announcement of any settlement was made in court, an agreement had been reached between Mr. and Mrs. McCormick on the division of property, according to Clarence Harrow, one of counsel for McCormick.

Mrs. McCormick returned to this country a few weeks ago, after spending eight years in Switzerland. Upon her return, she took up her residence in the McCormick town house, while Mr. McCormick moved to his estate at Lake Forest.

Altho they are jointly the backers and principal contributors to the Chicago Opera Association and attend almost nightly, Mrs. McCormick has occupied a box one side of the house and Mr. McCormick and his daughter, Muriel, on the other.

TRAVEL SEPARATELY
Rumors of the impending suit have been current ever since Mr. and Mrs. McCormick returned from Europe last summer at the same time, but on different ships. Mrs. McCormick denied at that time that a divorce was contemplated, while Mr. McCormick issued a laconic statement that he had moved his home to the country estate.

FLOW OF FINES IS NOT STEMMED

Prohibition Increases Collection, Records Show.

COMPARISON OF 1918-1921

More Plain Drunks In "Dry" Than in "Wet" Year.

Prohibition failed to stem the tide of money that flows into the city treasury from the pockets of those who have violated some phase of liquor regulations.

Figures gleaned from the docket of criminal court for eight months in the year of 1921, a prohibition year, shows an increase of $336 in the collected fines from liquor violations, over the amount collected in 1918, the last "wet" year.

Total number of liquor cases for eight comparative months in the two years gives 1918 the edge, with a total of 376. In 1921, eight comparative months show 254 cases.

Drunks, disorderly conduct and violations of regulatory provisions are included.

PLAIN DRUNKS INCREASE.
An enormous increase in the number of plain drunks is registered for 1921. A count showed 183 for eight months of the present year. In 1918, in a corresponding period, only eight were fined on similar charges. The 1918 count, however, is offset by the total number of disorderly cases. They numbered 364 for the eight months, and were in some shape or form attributed to liquor, according to officials.

Only four violations of regulatory provisions were noted and fined in the eight months of 1918, while in 1921 under the new Crabbie act, 43 cases were brought into criminal court. Some were passed on to higher courts, while others were fined. A total of $1,160 was added to the city funds in fines collected as a result.

FINES INCREASE.
Total fines collected under the regime of Judge Emmet Jackson during eight months of 1921 amount to $2,880. This sum comes as the direct result of liquor in some form or another.

The total for the corresponding eight months in 1918, the last wet year, is $2,044. This gives the prohibition year an increase of $836 in fines collected for liquor violations over the "wet" year.

LIQUOR POISONED

Several New Yorkers Die, Blinded from Drink.

NEW YORK.—(By United Press).—A wood alcohol scare swept New York today, following four deaths from poison holiday liquor.

Two victims were blinded and two are in hospitals, hovering between life and death from drinking bootleg intoxicants. Many others were temporarily affected.

John Horan, 40, who lived in the apartment house with the Tiffany brothers, was arrested on a homicide charge. Wives of the two brothers said their husbands bought the liquor from Horan, believing it was gin.

DOC KICKS, ADDS $10

Second New Year Baby in Lima Also to Have Bank Account

"TISN'T exactly fair," says Doc. "The second new arrival in Lima in 1922 must have some recognition. It's fine to start the first baby of the new year off with $10 in real money, but I'd like to do as much for the second."

So it's arranged. Doc, you see, means Dr. John H. Blattenberg, big-hearted John who takes an interest in everything especially in babies.

Doc's kick was registered after it was announced Tuesday that the Lima News and the American Bank would deposit $10 in a savings account for the first baby born in Lima in the new year. He wants the second to have an equal chance and everyone concerned is willing.

That makes $10, each, for the first and second babies to come after 1921 has passed into history at midnight next Saturday night. All that's necessary is for parents to send proof of the time of arrival of their babies. Physicians should make a note of the exact time—hour and minutes—and these statements should be sent to the editor of The Lima News.

As soon as it is determined which two babies arrived first, savings pass books will be delivered to parents for them.

The report said all of the robbers were masked and heavily armed. Two automobile trucks were used to haul the liquor away, said the report, which added that the trucks took the road toward Louisville.

Soon after the bandits departed, the five guards who were bound with ropes, released themselves and notified the Henry-co authorities. All cities within a sixty mile radius of Eminence were notified to watch for the bandits.

YOUNGSTOWN.—Mayor-elect George L. Oles declared today that despite the fact that he had appointed a preacher to be safely director, there will be no "blue Sunday" in Youngstown.

The statement was in answer to inquiries as to whether Oles' insistence on a "light" town would mean closing of theatres and other amusements on Sunday.

Rev. Levi G. Batman, pastor of the First Christian church, who was tendered the position of safety director, was still undecided today as to whether he would accept.

NEW CORN KINGS CROWNED

Titles are Won by Two More Ohio Farmers.

COLUMBUS.—(By Associated Press) — Two more Ohio "corn kings" were crowned today by the Ohio State University Agricultural College. The new kings are John Gleason of Sabina, Clinton-co., and J. Elmer Drake of Yellow Springs, Clark-co. Both won their title by raising more than 100 bushels of dried, shelled corn to the acre on 100 acres this year.

The Sabina farmer averaged 113.1 bushels to the acre, the second highest yield reported this year, and the Yellow Springs man 105.8 bushels.

Eight Ohio farmers have now qualified for the 100 bushel corn club. Last year, with a more favorable season, 13 farmers qualified.

20 CITIZENS TO BE ARRESTED

Thousands of Dollars Lost by O. E. Officials Assert.

FIRST AFFIDAVIT IS FILED

F. W. Snyder Enters Denial—Says He Burns Kerosene.

Alleged theft of thousands of dollars worth of electric current from the Ohio Electric was uncovered Wednesday morning when officials for the corporation obtained warrants in criminal court, charging more than a score of persons with stealing "juice."

F. W. Snyder, 29, laborer, 128 1-2 E. Spring-st., is the first man to be arrested at noon Wednesday.

MORE ARRESTS TO FOLLOW
Other arrests are expected to follow as more than a score of residents many of them prominent people are alleged to be involved. The warrants were sworn to by F. A. Bundy, and Clarence Winemiller, representatives of the company.

The two officials refused to state exactly the amount of current alleged to have been stolen, but it was learned from other sources the figures will amount to more than $20,000.

The stealing of "juice" from the company wires has been in progress for years, it is stated. The loss of money, it is believed by officials, is one of the underlying causes in the Ohio Electric being placed in the hands of a receiver.

Thefts are still in progress, they state. Many methods are used, according to Bundy, in defrauding the company.

Wires in houses where meters have been removed were connected and the occupants used the lights. In other cases wires were hooked on back of meters and the current conveyed around the meters, Bundy said.

Discovery of the theft of current was made some time ago thru employees of the company. Later, investigators were given charge of the matter and evidence against many persons was obtained, it is asserted.

MAY INVOLVE SCORES
The theft of electricity may develop into a gigantic swindle, involving scores in Lima not now suspected, officials state. Ohio Electric officials are withholding the names of persons not yet arrested and state that they will swear out a fresh batch of warrants Thursday.

"We do not know how many people are involved," said Bundy, "but the number is very large."

Snyder denied his guilt when the warrant was read to him at the police station.

"I don't know a thing about this," he said, "I have been using coal oil lamps."

He will be arraigned late Wednesday, it was indicated.

PENALTY HEAVY
Penalty for stealing current or diverting current belonging to a public utility company is severe. The offense is classed as a felony and is punishable by a fine of from $50 to $1,000, imprisonment in the state's prison, from one to three years or both.

Owing to a question of jurisdiction in so important a matter, Judge Jackson may not hear the case, but bind all alleged offenders over to the grand jury.

BLATTNER STORE LOOT LOCATED

Harry Groves, Ex-Soldier, Held For Robbery.

OFFICER'S GUN, BADGE FOUND

Prisoner Admits Part in Holdup of Rosen.

Groves was arraigned before Judge Jackson at 2:30 p. m. and pleaded guilty. He was bound over under $5,000 bond.

Mystery of the robbery of the S. G. Blattner store, 229-31 S. Main-st., a week ago and possibly two other jobs in Lima, was cleared up Wednesday afternoon according to police, when a squad of officers led by Chief O. J. Roush placed Harry Groves, 19 1045 Highland-ave., under arrest.

A tip as to the place of residence of the man alleged to have pulled the Blattner job reached Roush Wednesday.

Accompanied by Officers Watkins, Kipker and Kinzer, he went to the Highland-ave. house.

Groves appeared at the door. He was wearing a pair of trousers similar to those taken from Blattner's store.

LOOT IS RECOVERED
In a search of the place, police succeeded in finding two suit cases and two well filled hand bags. Among the articles are five sets of silverware, overcoats, shoes and clothing.

Value of the alleged stolen property recovered will approximate $200.

Groves was taken to the station and booked on a charge of burglary and larceny. He will be arraigned late Wednesday.

When searched, a badge and revolver, said to have been taken from Detective Rosen of the Erie railroad, were found on his person.

Groves admitted assisting in holdup of Rosen, when the officer found Groves, and a companion stealing coal. Groves said another man was engaged in the systematic theft of coal from both the Erie and the B. & O. Officers are looking for him. Groves agreed to assist in stealing the coal for $2, he said.

Groves denies connection with the National Union robbery, or that he is implicated in robbery of oil stations or groceries in the city.

WANTED CLOTHING
"I wanted clothes, not food," he said. "I was almost out and needed them."

Groves is a returned soldier and pictures on his person show him posing as a holdup man.

One shows him mounted on horse back and another on foot in the act of robbing a man. He is masked in both snap shots.

Other pictures show he has been in the west and may be an ex-convict. He is a short, set man. He has a wife and family.

Sam Blattner, proprietor of the store robbed, identified the loot at the station Wednesday.

THE DOOR SLAMS ON HAPPINESS

Poor Blood Makes Bad Health—Then Come the "Blues"

Once the vigor of red blood becomes sapped of its strength, the door to happiness is literally slammed. Weariness of body follows and it unfailingly engenders depressed thoughts. To be reserved and cheerful there is an almost almighty dimness in the expression of the eyes and a pallor to the skin. Days seem dull and dark and difficult. A sense of insufferable gloom pervades the spirit.

Then it is that Gude's Pepto-Mangan is the great help. It is a red blood builder. It puts red into the blood—increases the number of corpuscles which make blood rich and red. When the blood is restored to its natural healthy state, the sensation of well-being returns, instead of shuffling along carelessly, there is the firm and springy step, the bright, lustful eyes, the clear complexion. Identified with the strength and vigor of good health. The drugist has Gude's Pepto-Mangan in both liquid and tablet form.

U. S. GIFT OF 11 BILLIONS URGED

Justice Clarke Would Wipe Out Debts of Allies.

DECLARES SUCH ACTION DUE

Bound in Friendship; Also Good Business, He Says.

CLEVELAND — (By Associated Press) — That the war loans made by the United States to the allies should be "promptly and wholly cancelled," was urged by Justice John H. Clarke of the supreme court of the United States in an address at the weekly noonday luncheon of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce today.

After stating that the loan aggregated about nine and one-half billion dollars, and with interest now amounted to eleven billions, Justice Clarke said he would consider the proposed cancellation, first, as a matter of friendship for and justice to the nations which risked all with use and sacrifice much more than we did in support of the great common cause; and, second, on the basis of cold, practical business policy.

Clarke said the debts these countries owe the United States "is a crushing burden," and that it would be an immediate stimulant to the business of the world if the debts was cancelled at once.

KEMP TAKEN AS ROBBER, SPURNS WIFE AND CHILD, TEXT OF LETTER REVEALS

"Mrs. Vina Kemp:—

"Do not talk to me again, or ask me for anything for you will get no answer. Now watch your step. I mean it. Get it."

Such was the rudely scrawled note alleged to have been sent to Mrs. Kemp by her husband, arrested on a charge of burglary and who is being held under $1,000 bond in the county jail.

Kemp was taken into custody by private detectives employed by the Lima Merchants' association. He had made the statement to officers of the Social bureau that if he were not provided with money by that organization he would steal, it is alleged.

Kemp is known to have been in trouble recently at Crestline and Mansfield, officers state.

Mrs. Kemp, the mother of an 11-month-old baby, is about to become confined again. Efforts were being made Wednesday by the Social Service bureau to get in communication with her people and have her returned to her home.

"We refused Kemp money when he demanded it last week. He told us the family was in no immediate need of groceries, but that actual cash was required to meet rent expense. We did not give it, but offered to care for the wife and baby. That help was refused by Kemp," Mrs. Jackson, secretary of the Social Service bureau, said Wednesday.

Other charges may be filed against Kemp, Merchants' association officers stated Wednesday. He was formerly a railroad detective.

RESUME OF C. C. WORK IS GIVEN AT LUNCHEON

Efforts to stop the I. C. & E. traction company from abandoning service on the Lima-Defiance division were resumed at the chamber of commerce auditorium at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday.

The case was recently before the state public utilities commission for hearing and was postponed after considerable evidence had been presented by both sides.

Representatives from Defiance, Kalida, Comeau and other points along the Defiance division were present at Wednesday's meeting.

MILD WINTER STILL EXISTS

The year 1921 bids fair to continue its weather vagaries until the very last minute. Unwilling to permit the rigors of winter to take the place of generally mild and uncertain conditions, the forecaster hangs tenaciously to his usual form.

Unsettled tonight and Thursday is his saying. He adds there will be probable local snows in the north and central portions and warmer in the south portion tonight. Colder Thursday. With a southwest shifting to west and north west winds.

Those who depend on ability to harvest crops of natural ice, are not enamored of the outlook at this time.

DEMOCRATIC WIFE CHOSEN AS MEMBER OF CITY BOARD BY NEW REPUBLICAN MAYOR

INDIANAPOLIS — Mrs. Sarah Shank, a Democrat, wife of Samuel Lewis Shank, Republican mayor-elect, has been appointed a member of the board of park commissioners by her husband.

Mrs. Shank said she took the office reluctantly because she feared it would cause an impression of "too much Shank" in the administration of the city's affairs.

The mayor-elect's decision to appoint his wife came, he said, after he had found there was considerable demand for the naming of a woman on the park board.

"There are several Democratic women that I could have appointed, but I know Sarah's qualifications, and I know that with her on the board there will be no question about the carrying out of my promise and pledges as to playgrounds for the kids in all parts of the city," Mr. Shank said.

MONEY DOES NOT CARRY DISEASE

Claims as to Coins Spreading Germs Disproved.

TESTS MADE IN ILLINOIS

Metal Acc As Bacteria Destroyer, Investigators Say.

URBANA, Ill. — (By Associated Press) — There seems to be little basis for the belief that coins bear any close relation to the spread of disease, according to an announcement made at the University of Illinois here by Drs. Charlotte B. Ward and Fred W. Tanner, of the University, following a series of tests made by the two.

"Coins of the lower denominations were examined for the types of bacteria which exist on them," says their report. "It has often been stated that money is a very dangerous article of commerce since it is handled by all sorts of persons and because it usually moves so quickly from one person to another. It has also been stated that cashiers and others whose vocations require them to handle money in larger quantities than the average person, might be more susceptible to disease, but this does not seem to be the case."

BACTERIA DESTROYED

"It seems that the very metals from which the coins are made act to destroy the bacteria which reach the coins. In the study only the more resistant of bacteria, the spore-forming bacteria, were found. This indicates that money need not be feared for bacteria cannot live long on it."

"These findings, however, do not justify holding coins in the mouth while the hands are serving other purposes."

"Coins as they are passed from person to person, come in contact with acids and alkalis which form soluble salts on their surfaces, says the report on the tests."

SLAYER OF WIFE DIES OF SELF-INFLICTED WOUND

COLUMBUS — Thayer Eckert, 25, died in a local hospital today from wounds, self-inflicted, after he had murdered his wife, Ruth Davis Eckert, at their home in Hilliards, November 5. He was removed to the hospital yesterday from the county jail where he was held on a charge of first degree murder.

After shooting his wife, Eckert turned the weapon on himself, sending a bullet into his head causing blindness. The Eckerts had been estranged.

Last Saturday Eckert was able to appear in court where he entered a plea of not guilty to the murder charge.

CINCINNATI — The baggage and two storage cars of the Cincinnati-St. Louis Baltimore and Ohio express which left here at 8:50 o'clock this morning were derailed at Delhi, a suburb of this city. No one was injured.

None of the passenger coaches and Pullmans left the rails. The passengers were shaken up somewhat. The train was running at a speed of 35 miles an hour when the accident happened.

HAS THE CHURCH FAILED?

SINCE so-called prohibition has been in effect, the time can be reckoned in months. For many years before prohibition of the manufacture and sale as a beverage of intoxicating liquors, the church occupied a position in the forefront of the movement arrayed against the saloon and alcoholic liquors.

Illicit manufacture and illegal sale of the soul destroying concoction goes on; sometimes one is impelled to believe, with increasing volume. And in spite of the fact millions have been expended in a campaign for the enforcement of the provisions of the eighteenth amendment, adopted during a time of war.

The question now arises, has the church of Jesus Christ failed in its mission of providing something to take the place of the so-called sociability of the open saloon and demon drink? Prohibition will be a complete success only when this can be done.

It is a problem that confronts the forces of uplift. Some headway has been made, but the ultimate goal has not been attained.

HEADS UP! FACES TO THE SUN!

BUSINESS on the upgrade from now on should be the slogan of everyone, in all lines of production. Progress in manufacture during the year now closing has not been attained. The tendency has been backward, with consequent unemployment, but there has been an increase in effectiveness.

Individual production is again speeding up. Peace time methods are succeeding war time plans. Normal conditions are returning, slowly but none the less surely. Everyone can help. Those who are not endeavoring to produce more at less cost are not doing their part. The waste of war must be succeeded by peace time saving.

Thrift, frugality and economy must again be enthroned. A new year is near at hand. Make its advent reflective of a new deal in production and methods and in all lines of human endeavor.

Heads up! Faces to the sun!

SHADE TREES

THAT tremendous collection of bricks, known as New York City, has 175,000 trees. These are dying rapidly and tree experts predict that in 20 years even the parks of New York will be treeless.

A system of finely wooded parks and a profusion of shade trees in residence districts are worth more to any city than 10,000 skyscrapers. Lima has no better citizen than the householder who plants and cares for trees to break the monotony of our artificial metropolitan life.

YOUTHFUL THEVERY

UNUSUALLY large numbers of alleged youthful thieves have been apprehended in Lima recently. And the same condition exists elsewhere. The situation is one that calls for a feeling of grave concern.

Where to place the blame is difficult to determine. It may be the result of a combination of circumstances. Is the home losing its influence? Is the juvenile system too lax? Is the example set by elders to blame? Is it the result of too many occasions for the spending of money?

These and other queries troop in. Something is wrong—somewhere. But what is it? Father and Son movements are having their good effect, the church is struggling bravely with the problem, philanthropic and civic organizations back every move intended to reach the youth and direct his footsteps.

But the forces for evil are working overtime. The biggest effort is still to be made. What can be done to turn the tide is a question as yet unanswered. It is a problem that must be solved.

'ROUND LIMA HOUR BY HOUR

—WITH APOLOGUE—

BY OH. OH. JACKENRIM
A Page From the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:—Up very betimes, with newes of a family gathering.

ABE MARTIN

Just Bud's cousin wuz poisoned by a bell boy at Kokomo yesterday. It's a dull day when some woman don't die in a poorhouse, that used to be the toast of 'em town.

ering to be at Saint Maries, whence we skidded our way. There about table sat the entire family, numbering fifteen, with age ranging from 5 to 76, but noted, of descendants there were but four from eleven elders, proving the collapse of population.

Back and met with Thos. Schoonover, the Wally Reid of Lima, and very brave he was in a dark toned double breasted sack of finest cloth, trimmed with silk and with buttons unseen at my tailor's here. Invitation from Frank Pfeister to enjoy the last bottle, and wine he said it was. Then came a second message that his wife placed the bottle on the window sill to cool, thinking it only ginger ale. So frozen it became to the ice that it fell, spilling the sparkling for all time. And the invitation thereby cancelled. Poor Frank! saddened guests.

And then sat awhile with Clem Baxter, the autoist, who recalled olden days. Abroad with my wife to the Faurot theatre, and a good cinema, the best in many days.

Thru the crowd and well-dressed were the ladies as ever I did see, the goloshes being now worn closed, and not flapping as last year. So home and after hot milk, to bed.

The score on North Main: Forde 13; other cars 39.

When the rich go to the city and stop at the modern hotel, they would envy that Lima has anything like that. Yet at the new absolutely fire-proof Barr Hotel, one can order anything from a room with only books and eyes to a suite of one, two, three rooms and tiled bath; or an apartment, two bed rooms, living room, bath and kitchenette. You can do your own work or have maid service from the hotel; cook your own meals, have them brought up or go to the big dining room. You can eat a la carte, table d'hôte, or give a party in a private dining room. And for the men, they can call Shook, or the hotel will get and deliver your laundry, and black your shoes. The Waldorf-Castoria has nothing on the Hotel de Barr.

HAS THIS CHAP BEEN FORGOTTEN?

NOW FOR NEW YEAR'S

OLIDAYS come and go. It is the order of the cycle. Christmas of 1921 has come and gone. Lima attained a splendid record in looking after the children of needy families. What was done is something to be proud of.

It is safe to say that not a single home was overlooked by the various charitable and civic, religious and philanthropic organizations. Happiness crowded into dark places. Yuletide joy was carried to the bedside of the ill, to the chair of the invalid and the aged shut-in.

The spirit of Christmas was manifest everywhere. The sentiment of the season was present in a marked manner. Among business men there is unusual satisfaction. Big stocks were moved. Patronage was excellent.

Next comes New Year's. We are on the last lap of 1921. Five days and 1922 will be here, with its problems to be solved. Are you ready for it?

Stern justice relaxes sometimes, but not all fractions of the law are overlooked at Christmas time by those charged with the administration of justice.

Those who expect miracles to be performed by the new form of municipal government for Lima are due for an awakening. Effectiveness is anticipated, but miracles are not being performed nowadays.

New Year's, monthly bills and annual settlements come simultaneously—before Dad has had an opportunity to recover from the Christmas onslaught.

Listed among useless things might be mentioned the large number of evergreens shipped in for use as Christmas trees after the demand had been supplied.

If a Go-to-Church campaign attained the results intended and hoped for, 'twould be necessary to erect additions to houses of worship.

It was a wise Santa Claus who included a box of tools in his gift list, so dad can start a repair shop when the toy wrecks are reported by the juvenile department of the household.

Plans for progress in 1922 should include a generous supply of determination to aid in making Lima a bigger and better city.

One New Year resolution carried into effect is better than a flock of 'em adopted only to be quickly broken.

The dollars of the family are not carried in the wife's name as often as the sense.

THE SCHOOL BOY'S LAMENT.
They're always makin' trouble for a kid in school like me
By addin' to the dates and things that's in our history;
Before the war, my brother says, 'twas easier than now,
Things sorta stayed the way they was, and what you'd studied how
A certain land was bounded—why, you'd learned that fact for good,
They didn't change the maps around, they drewed 'em — an' they stood!
But nowadays a kid like me ain't got that kind of snap,
They've made a thousand changes he must study on the map!

With Chekko-Slavs an' Jugo-Slavs, U-brane-e-juds and such,
Siber-e-uns and Seri-uns, he's gotta keep in touch
Alban-e-uns and George-e-uns, Armenian-e-uns and Turks,
He's gotta know their boundaries and just the way they work;
And then there's dates of battles and of diplomatic notes
And names of famous generals and names of fightin'-boats,
The war was hard on lots of folks, yes, very hard and cruel
And it's per-tick-e-lur-ly hard on kids like me in school.

Still, I was gettin' to the place where I knew all about
The way the war was started and the way they fought it out,
At least I'd got a lot of dope about that great event
When—Bing! they calls this conference about disarmament!
And that brings on a flock of dates and names I've gotta know,
Until it seems a person's life is just one mass of woe;
Those generals and presidents and men of high degree,
They're always makin' history—and makin' work for me!

HEALTH TALKS

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

—SLEEP EIGHT HOURS—

This is the pneumonia season. One cannot tell from one week to another whether he will be a victim of pneumonia. It is a surprise disease. It attacks when you are feeling weak and when you least expect its attack.

A person enjoying good health is in practically no danger of contracting pneumonia.

It requires not only the presence of the germ but some outside influence to lower the resistance of the body before you will become a victim of this disease.

The greatest predisposing cause of pneumonia is fatigue. One gets all tired out and then if the germ attacks, the cells of the body can't fight back.

Loss of sleep leaves the cells exhausted by the work of the previous day and gives them little time to repair and rest themselves.

Overeating is harmful. It clogs the body with a great deal of useless material that requires overtime work on the part of important organs of digestion and elimination. The body is not able to maintain its defenses at maximum strength and do this other work, too.

Despite prohibition, alcohol still remains a great predisposing cause of pneumonia. The feeling of intoxication is merely the sum total of effect of alcohol on all the cells in the body. The cells, the standing army of the human body, are paralyzed by alcohol and rendered weak as the aftermath.

MRS. DELLA KUNZE, Chicago, Ill.

"I understand now why so many people praise Tanlac as I have tried it myself and it certainly is a wonderful medicine," said Mrs. Della Kunze, 856 Lill Ave., Chicago, valued employee of the Boston Department Store.

"I eat with so much zest and enjoyment now that my family really joke me about it. A short time ago, however, I had absolutely no appetite and was eating so little that I was losing weight and strength every day and I suffered so much from indigestion and nervousness that I was on the brink of a breakdown.

"There are absolutely no words that can express my delight at the remarkable and immediate results I obtained from Tanlac. It benefited me in every way. Instead of being depressed and melancholy and tired and worn out I am full of life and energy and cheerful and happy all the time. I've gained twelve pounds in weight, too."

Tanlac is sold in Lima by Hunter's Drug Stores and by leading druggists everywhere. —Adv.

OHIO MINES TO FIX OWN WAGES

Fields Discontinue Negotiations With Other Districts.

SEEN AS OPEN SHOP MOVE

Plan Doesn't Provide for the Check-off System.

COLUMBUS — (By Associated Press) — Announcement by the Southern Ohio Coal Exchange that its members, operating mines in the southern Ohio fields, would discontinue negotiation of wage scales in joint meetings with other districts in the central competitive field and propose an individual scale for their employees which would not provide for the "check-off" system of collection of union dues, was regarded in various lights here today.

Coal operators, including W. D. McKinney, secretary of the exchange, declared that the action of their organization, taken at a meeting late yesterday, was not intended as a "blow to unionized labor," but that they were "driven to the move" by the ability of concerns in West Virginia and other fields to under-sell them.

AIM OF ORGANIZATION

While officials of the Ohio Miners' Association maintained silence, expressions of opinion from other quarters indicated belief that the decision of the operators was the initial move in an effort to establish "open shop" conditions in the Hocking Valley fields where practically all the holdings operated by the seventy members of the exchange are located.

The first hint that establishment of the new system of wage fixing had been decided upon came with publication late yesterday of a letter sent by the exchange to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, at Indianapolis. Replying to a letter from Lewis requesting that representatives be sent to Pittsburgh to decide with miners' representatives upon the date for a wage conference for all central competitive field districts, the operators flatly refused to participate.

$100,000,000 SPENT BY AMERICANS FOR TOYS

NEW YORK.—More than $100,000,000 was spent by the American people for toys and games during 1922, the National City Bank has figured. The factory value of toys manufactured in this country has more than trebled, it was estimated, since the war cut off the supply from Germany, chief source of America's toy imports. The value of toys made here in 1918, was given as $46,000,000 compared with $14,000,000 five years previously.

Capital invested in the American industry advanced from $10,000,000 in 1914 to $25,000,000 in 1918. Toy imports declined from $8,000,000 in 1913 to $1,000,000 in 1918, while imports rose in 1920 to $6,000,000 and to $10,000,000 in 1921.

Exports of American toys jumped from less than $1,000,000 in 1913 to $4,000,000 last year.

WORLD'S ODDEST SCHOOL-IT'S FOR BABIES ONLY!

BY ALICE ROHE

NEW YORK — (Special) — I've just visited the most advanced school in America — I believe, in the world.

It is where the most modern mothers send their babies while they are out following the careers for which they are fitted.

The place is really the nursery school — a sort of "prep" school to that most advanced educational institution, the City and Country School, formerly the Play School West 131st-st.

The youngest pupil is 13 months old! The oldest is two years. Every child in the school is the son or daughter of a distinguished professional mother. They are the offspring of young parents who believe that woman has a right both to a career and to motherhood.

The infantile pupils are getting the very best advantages of those tender years that ever young hopefuls were offered.

The children are supplied with all sorts of materials and are permitted to experiment.

"We have a physician and a psychologist," said Miss Carmeu Ruben, who has charge of the musical end of the school.

"We take careful notes of everything the child does. At the end of the month we give a detailed summary. We only take into this department children who go later in life to the City and Country School which is under Miss Caroline Pratt's direction. This is because we want to observe the child over a definite time.

"The whole work is under the Bureau of Education and Experiments, a group of people interested in research."

As Miss Ruben talked 18-month-old Jane was bringing me colored blocks and explaining in a somewhat primitive way their uses. Two-year-old Michael was climbing the steps to the top of the slide down which he later took an ecstatic ride.

Nineteen-month-old David was discovering the melody in some chimes. A dietitian was giving two-year-old Moya a carefully prepared meal as she had just been brought in from her nap on a sleeping porch.

Jimmie and Laddie, after romping on the roof garden, were having their nap. Never were eight happier and healthier children enjoying life together.

Then came the music period when Miss Ruben asked me to watch the response of these babies to music. And the way those infants marked rhythm and took intervals was remarkable. Yet no one even gave them a suggestion when Miss Ruben sat down at the piano.

Indeed, music is used to inculcate a lot of necessary things into these youngsters. Little Moya didn't want to eat her dinner and Miss Ruben soon had her consume the entire dinner by singing a little song about Moya's eating.

The children are brought to the school at half past 9 in the morning and then taken home in a taxi at 4. They have milk and one square meal, and they take naps and are looked after in every respect, mentally and physically.

So exhaustive is the tabulating of the child's life in his reactions to everything — that the number is limited to eight, although the applications are many and the waiting list long.

In the City and Country School where children up to 10 are admitted the small group system is also followed.

MENTAL MARRIAGE PROVES SUCCESS! WIFE TELLS WHY

MR. AND MRS. JOHN G. NEIHARDT

OMAHA.—Would you marry a man without even seeing him, just because you liked his poetry? Mona Martinson, daughter of a New York capitalist, did. And her marriage turned out successfully. Now she's mother of four children. Returning to New York from Paris where she'd studied art under the famous sculptor, Auguste Rodin, Miss Martinson read a volume of verses by John G. Neihardt.

She liked them. She wrote to the poet. Six months later a train was carrying her to Omaha and Neihardt was standing on the station platform with a marriage license in his coat pocket.

"Why should it be foolish to marry without seeing each other with the physical eyes?" Mrs. Neihardt asks. "Is not the ideal more real than the material? When Mr. Neihardt was in Omaha and I was in New York, I knew that in the things that really counted we were one."

Neihardt is the only poet laureate in the United States. The Nebraska Legislature has given him that title in recognition of his epic poems immortalizing the west.

The four Neihardt children are prodigies. They know the Iliad and Odyssey as intimately as your children know "Mother Goose" and "Bo Peep."

LETTERS TO LOVERS

By WINONA WILCOX

THERE are a few old fashioned girls left in the world, and they are not having a very good time, writes one of them.

"If a girl can find contentment at home, if she takes pleasure in knowing how to prepare a good meal; if she prefers a book to bridge; if she would rather go to a concert than to a dance, she is called 'old-fashioned,' and the boys let her alone!"

"Well, I am one of them. And although I am not 20 years old, I can see very well that I am destined to travel along life's pathway alone and starting for a little bit of love."

"I suppose that deep in every girl's heart is the wish to love and be loved. I've heard girls talk. I know some who have gone to universities, not to study, but solely to pick out husbands. Usually they succeeded."

"Well, I was brought up to suppose that a man must do the wooing. That notion is as old-fashioned as my love for books. In spite of my longing for a husband and a home, I want to be wooed and I could not dangle my prettiness before the boys as I see some of the girls doing."

"Now can you tell me what is going to take the place of this deep need of the husband, and the home I never will have?"

"I don't want to be a missionary. I don't want to be a welfare worker."

What is left for me to do?"

A bachelor girl can adopt children. Many adopt more than one. They give these little "sons" and "daughters" the nicest homes, the best of educations, and the sincerest affection. But even so, something is wanting in the life of a child reared in a spinster's home.

And it is something very important: it is the influence and the example of the man.

So far as comforting the mother-heart goes these babies give fair satisfaction. So far as mothering goes, these unmarried women often excel the wife who is fortunate enough to mother her own babes. But the lack of the paternal influence may hamper a child in ways which even the psychologists have not yet defined adequately.

For this reason, the European style of marriage which is based on respect rather than love seems to have some admirable advantages. By means of it the woman maintains her keen need of belonging to a clan or family, and her pride in the future of her family, as she sees it in the lives of her own children.

Dear Miss Smart: Will you please tell me which city has the larger population, Cleveland or Detroit?

According to the last census, Detroit is the larger, having a population of 932,678 while Cleveland has a population of 796,326.

MISTER 44

BY E. J. RATH

PATTERN FOR TODAY

"You see, Larry," Stoddard said, "Sadie has decided—very wisely, too—to quit the city. She likes to be outdoors, so I offered to get her a position. We both agree she is doing the right thing. Don't we, Sadie?"

"Yes, Jack."

The faint putt-putt of a motor launch came across the water.

"That'll be your mother and sister, I imagine," said Larry, with affected carelessness. "They said they'd probably run up this evening if it was clear and pleasant," he explained. "As they expect to leave tomorrow they won't have much time to see you."

"I can't see anybody in these clothes!" blurted Sadie. "Not ladies."

Livingston looked at the pair curiously.

"I can understand how you feel, Sadie," said Stoddard. "You don't have to see them now, of course."

Seizing her arm, Stoddard walked her rapidly across the little clearing into the woods. A dozen feet beyond the rim of the trees was utter darkness, to the eyes of persons who stood in the firelight. He groped about until he found a rock upon which Sadie could sit. "It doesn't seem right," he began.

"Why, I wouldn't have women see me in this outfit for a thousand dollars," Sadie affirmed. "I'll sit here all they go."

His hand found hers in the dark. "Don't mind Larry," he said in a low voice. "He doesn't understand. And that was brave of you, telling him about your work."

"Was it?" she whispered.

"Thanks—Jack!"

Something soft and cool brushed the back of his hand as he turned to leave her. Sadie, secure from his eyes, had laid her cheek against it.

When Stoddard reached the campfire, Larry was starting for landing place.

"Not a word, you understand," said Stoddard. He noticed toward Sadie's place of concealment.

"I don't see why," said Larry. "They're bound to hear of it."

Stoddard gripped him by the arm. "This is my affair," he said shortly. "It's my business to tell about it. I choose, nobody's else's. You leave it alone."

"Piffle!" exclaimed Livingston indignantly. "It's a good story."

"If you so much as drop a hint, I'll pick you up and toss you into the lake. I mean that."

"Oh, all right, if you're so fussy about it! Ouch! You're hurting my arm. Let go!"

"Remember!" said Stoddard grimly. "The lake for yours."

Stoddard was awaiting the launch as the bow came within his reach. An instant later he was lifting his mother and Betty to the firm ground.

"And where in the world have you been?" exclaimed Mrs. Stoddard. "Larry said you deserted him for two days."

"Oh, I was just prowling around in the canoe," said Stoddard. "Larry was all right. He had John. And how are you both?"

With an arm around each, he led Betty and his mother to the campfire. As Mrs. Stoddard now observed a view of her big son, she uttered a cry of dismay.

"For mercy's sake, John! What in the world have you been doing? You are a perfect fright!"

Stoddard grinned cheerfully. "I'm not exactly dolled up for company," he admitted.

There was genuine horror in Mrs. Stoddard's eyes. Betty had never seen her brother in the garb of a tramp, and she was frankly interested in the spectacle.

"Tell me all the news," commanded Stoddard. "How's New York? And what brings you here?"

"We came in your uncle's private car," said Mrs. Stoddard, as she gingerly sat on the blanketed log.

"We are going thru to the Pacific Coast. He had some business up near North Bay that was to keep him for a couple of days, so we decided to run up to see you."

"That's fine! Too bad I wasn't in this afternoon. Did Larry show you the camp?"

"We have seen it," replied his mother with a sigh. "I can't say that I appreciate it. It's so crude, so uncomfortable, so dirty! Ugh!"

"Why it's as clean as a pin, mother! This is a spotless camp."

"Look at your hands, John! Do you call them clean?"

"It's clean dirt," he said stonily. "It hasn't any city germs on it, anyhow."

Mrs. Stoddard inspected her gloved hands, whereon she promptly discovered smudges. She was a hand-some woman, and in the matter of costume she made no concession to the Deepwater country. Her gown was from Paris and looked it. Even Betty was a fashion-plate.

Stoddard began to smile. "You'll have to pardon me, mother," he said, "but you look just as funny to me as I do to you, I imagine. We don't see clothes like that up here in an age."

"Betty and I did not know we were leaving civilization," she answered.

"Otherwise you wouldn't have left at all," he laughed.

"More than likely. We have been very comfortable aboard the car."

"I suppose you're something of a sensation at the hotel," he remarked.

"Sensation!" broke in Betty. "I should say we were! We were positive curiosities!"

"But tell me about this trip," said Stoddard. "How long are you planning to be gone?"

"Three or four weeks probably," answered his mother. "We will meet the Wallaces at the coast, where they will join us."

"Estelle?" Stoddard smiled a little ironically.

"Yes. With her father and mother. They are West now."

"And the Fitches?"

"They went abroad. Kitty is with them."

"I wish we could have gone," complained Betty. "The West is so stupid, mother."

"Your uncle wanted us to go with him," said Mrs. Stoddard in a tone of resignation. "I felt that we simply could not refuse."

Larry Livingston had been holding aloof from the conversation, but he was in his breast, but he 3816. Even a tiny girl loves a dress with pockets, such as this model portrays. The lines are simple, and the making not difficult. Figured percale, or checked gingham may be selected for the dress, and plique or repp in a contrasting color for the trimming. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 3, 4, and 5 years. A 3 year size requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. Collar, cuffs, belt, and pockets of contrasting material require 5-8 yard.

must not tell it, and this to Larry was a form of cruel and unusual punishment.

"Tell Jack about Mrs. Westfall, mother," suggested Betty.

"You know the Westfalls, John?" asked Mrs. Stoddard.

"Don't think I do. I've heard the name."

"Mrs. Westfall went to school with Betty," began her mother.

"We don't see much of her now. But she is at the hotel here. She has just been thru a most terrible experience and says she never wants to see the country again. Have you heard about the lunatic?"

Stoddard shook his head. "Haven't met him," he observed.

"Unless it's Larry."

"Well Mrs. Westfall had a most harrowing experience," said Mrs. Stoddard. "You know, her husband, Dick Westfall, and her brother have been here camping. She came on to join them. It seems that she had no sooner gotten off the train than a wild man rushed up to her and seized her by the arm and began dragging her along the platform. She was too frightened even to scream."

"Mrs. Stoddard paused to shudder. "It seems there was another train at the station," said Mrs. Stoddard, resuming. "He flung her aboard it as it was starting. Then he threw her baggage after her and yelled something. And then she was carried away."

"Huh!" said Stoddard mechanically.

"She was so utterly stupefied that she remained sitting on the car platform until the conductor found here. The insane man had thrown into her lap an envelope. When she opened it she found a railroad ticket to Toronto, a Pullman berth—and fifty dollars!"

"He must have been insane. Does she describe him?" Stoddard spoke casually.

"She cannot. She simply knows he was a large man, roughly dressed, and possessed of tremendous strength."

"There were a couple of men here this afternoon after your mother left," Livingston broke in. "Forest rangers, they said they were. They said there were a lot of men out in the woods looking for him."

"Mrs. Westfall is offering a reward," added Mrs. Stoddard.

"And what happened to Mrs. Westfall after the conductor found her?" Stoddard risked.

"She went clear thru to Toronto. Meantime she telegraphed her husband and he went down and brought her up here. They needed her here, so she could identify the man."

"I see," said Stoddard slowly. "Werent they able to get any clue at the station?" he asked.

"It appears not. The ticket agent at Deepwater doesn't remember who bought the ticket and the berth."

Stoddard wondered if they had questioned Billy Mason, the station-master.

"And how much reward is Westfall offering?" he asked.

"It's only a hundred dollars, but they say it looks as large as a thousand to most of the men who are out hunting for the creature."

Stoddard knew that was true. He decided he would have to see Billy himself; he might, in fact, have to pay the reward—privately.

"He ought to be shot," Betty affirmed, "and he probably will be, because they say he's too big and strong to capture alive. Dolly Westfall says he has all the strength of an insane man."

"Is she an expert on lunatics?"

"A person doesn't have to be when somebody picks them up and throws them twenty or thirty feet aboard a rapidly moving train."

"Did she say that?" Stoddard asked in an awed voice.

"I think Betty exaggerates a little," explained his mother. "But it was a very perilous experience—enough to frighten any woman to death."

"I should think so," Stoddard agreed.

"We are expecting you to join our party tomorrow, John," Mrs. Stoddard spoke quietly.

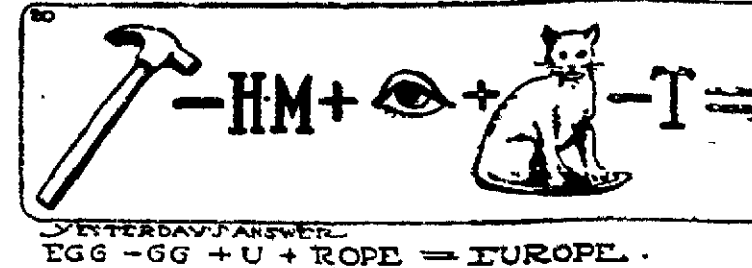

"Oh, out of the question!" her son exclaimed.

"But why? We planned it as part of the surprise."

"Because I'm up here for the woods, that's why. And I'm carrying out the doctor's prescription for Larry."

"But Larry has said he will go with us."

Stoddard turned a baleful look upon Livingston.

"Why not?" said Larry. "I'm not strong for this primitive man business. I've had enough of it."

"I guess that private car sounds good to you, Larry. Go ahead. I'm going to stay here."

Mrs. Stoddard was plainly annoyed.

"Surely you get enough of this, John, when your business calls you! Sometimes you're away from us for a year and more. I should think you'd be utterly weary of it."

Stoddard shrugged his big shoulders. "Let's drop it, mother," he said. "I can't go."

"Betty," said her mother, "you must telegraph Estelle in the morning. Estelle was coming part of the way to meet us," explained Mrs. Stoddard. "But now—"

"Oh!" said her son. "You go down on the evening train tomorrow?" he asked.

"Probably. It is possible, tho, that your uncle may arrange for a special engine, in which case we may go earlier."

Betty suggested that it was time to start back to the hotel. As they were re-embarking Mrs. Stoddard told Larry that they would call for him on the morrow. She bade her son a warm good-by. She was gloriously proud and fond of him.

Back in her sylvan refuge Sadie was glad the darkness hid her, for she had been crying. Stoddard groped his way into the tangle and led her back to the campfire.

"Why, Sadie!" he said, "you've been crying! You poor kid! It was a shame to leave you there so long."

"That's all right. I'm just tired," Stoddard led her to the tent.

Down by the fire he found an indignant Larry.

"You've given her the tent, have you? And what about me?"

"You can curl up out here, as John and I are going to do," replied Stoddard shortly. "You'll be bunking in a sixty-thousand-dollar private car tomorrow night, with a porter to wait on you. Dream about that for a change."

Stoddard was puzzled and disturbed. Sadie wasn't tired, he knew. Why did she cry?

"MISS LULU BETT" ONE OF YEAR'S BEST FILMS

(BY ESTHER WAGNER.)
MAKE space near the top of your list of photoplays to see, for screen version of "Miss Lulu Bett." Crown William DeMille, the director, with laurel or anything else which signifies reward for work well done.

"Miss Lulu Bett" gained for Zona Gale the Pulitzer prize for writing the best play of the 1921 season. Her book version was universally praised. And she says the photoplay improves both those forms.

Miss Lulu Wilson, in the title role, must have been an ideal selection for the part of the dowdy, dish-washing slave. Her characterization is said to be the best thing she has given the movies.

Faurot—Mrs. Fiske

MRS. Fiske is one actress whose position in the world of the drama is so assured that she does not have to shine by contrast. That is why she always surrounds herself with the best players obtainable and always retains her New York company when she goes on tour. In her latest comedy success, "Wake Up Jonathan!" coming to the Faurot Opera House for a single performance Monday, January 2, she has a splendid cast which includes Charles Dalton, Donald Cameron, Helen Holt, Walton Butterfield, Richard Abbott, Hubert Hodgkins, Freddie Goodrow, Edith Lowison, Lois Bartlett and Nora Stirling, each carefully selected for the role to be portrayed. Mrs. Fiske's latest vehicle is a fanciful comedy of the American home which scored a triumph during its last season's run in New York.

"Hearts of the World"—Majestic

D. W. GRIFFITH'S "Hearts of the World" said to be this master producer's greatest picture, is showing the last two days of this week at the Majestic theatre. Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Robert Harron, George Fawcett, Kate Bruce and Little Ben Alexander are some of the leading players. More than 500,000 men and women participate in the spectacle.

THEATRE DIRECTORY.

THE FAUROT:—"Don't Tell Everything" starring Wallace Reid, Gloria Swanson and Elliott Dexter, is the Faurot's special attraction today and all this week. Also added features.

AT THE SIGMA:—"Thos. H. Ince's" "Mother O' Mine," a stirring melodrama, is the attraction again today at the Sigma theatre. Lloyd Hughes, Betty Blythe and Betty Ross Clarke make up the all-star cast. Also a good comedy and News reel.

FREE THOUGHT IN SCHOOLS URGED

Uniform Standard Attacked at Columbus Meeting.

COLUMBUS—(By Associated Press)—Establishment of uniform standards in schools was condemned in an address here today before the Ohio State Teachers' Association by H. L. Miller, professor of education, and director of experimental school of the University of Wisconsin.

"A very serious mistake is being made in both schools and colleges in the attempt to establish uniform standards and thus seem to make all pupils alike or to introduce different levels of group mediocrity," Mr. Miller declared.

"The startling degree of uniformity and mediocrity attained is evidence of the deadening influence of grades and tests," he continued.

"So far, American educators have shown very little regard for cultivating the influences which tend to strengthen original thinking and the formation of independent judgments upon intellectual subjects. Now, with scientific attention paid to individual differences, we may hope for a decided change in opinion in regard to the conventional standardization of thinking which has been such a hindrance to progress."

ACTIVITY OF MIND
"So long as thought merely copies an existing pattern, it is not free, no matter how much of it there may be.

"Freedom of thought, implies, among other things, that the teacher of anything from the 3 R's to theology, provokes the originality of his pupil not as a recipient, but as a reacting agent, accepts his as the predominant partner in the work of education, and aims at a result which shall contain a large contribution from the free activity of his mind.

"Under genuine freedom, nothing can be further from the aim of the teacher than to impress upon the minds of others a slavish copy of the doctrine taught, even tho this

In the stage version, Miss Lulu finally blossoms into a beautiful creature, with a goodly amount of the thing known as charm or style. But in the film version it is different—no such resplendent butterfly bursts forth. Up to the very last Miss Wilson wears ill-fitting, drab clothes.

Theodore Roberts brings new honors unto himself thru his portrayal of Dwight Deacon, the justice-of-the-peace dentist brother-in-law who kept Lulu in subjugation.

Critics say the film version of "Miss Lulu Bett" is far better than the stage play could ever hope to be, because it develops its action and characters to a greater nicety.

And William DeMille is the man responsible for it.

Some of the characters in "Miss Lulu Bett," William DeMille's master film version of Zona Gale's play.

INSPECTOR AND OWNER BLAMED IN THEATRE FIRE

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Building Inspector Joseph Austin, Lawrence E. Carroll, manager of the Rialto theatre, and Alfred S. Black, president of the Connecticut theatres corporation, which owned the theatres, are held criminally responsible for the deaths of nine persons in the Rialto theatre fire of November 7, in a finding by Coroner Eli Mix today.

The coroner says that the direct cause of the fire was the burning of incense to give "atmosphere" to a motion picture, flimsy stage draperies being ignited from the incense.

The coroner finds that many violations of the law in the theatre included the absence of many safeguards.

NEW RECORD IS SET IN LAKE SHIPPING

CHICAGO—Chicago's lake-borne commerce broke the records of 20 years in 1921, when 78,378, 979 bushels of corn were shipped to foreign markets, according to a report of William H. Clare, collector of customs, made public today.

More than three thousand vessels, with a net tonnage of 5,821, 981 cleared from the Chicago and Calumet river harbor during the year; duties collected on imports totalled $9,426,201.42, slightly more than a million dollars below the high water mark set in 1920.

SPEAKERS CHOSEN FOR WEST CAIRO INSTITUTE

Several speakers from Allen-co will appear on the program of the annual farm institute at West Cairo, January 3 and 4. A. P. High, New Washington, state speaker and Rev. Guyer, president of Findlay college, are also programmed.

Dairying and poultry raising, road and taxation questions will be discussed. A special meeting for women will be held the first day. On the second day of the institute a union meeting of men and women will be held.

PARADE WILL FEATURE WELCOME TO E. V. DEBS

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. — A hometown welcome awaited the return here tonight of Eugene V. Debs, Socialist leader who was released from prison last Sunday thru presidential commutation of his ten year sentence for violations of war laws. Friends and neighbors, regardless of their own views of Debs' doctrines, as well as his followers, were expected to meet the train and escort the Socialist leader to his home, where he will meet his wife.

Altho disappointed by the attendance at a preliminary meeting last night, the socialist leaders here were confident that tonight's demonstration, featured by a parade of the downtown district, would attract a big crowd.
